BACKGROUND

The Congressional Historic Preservation Caucus, founded in 2003 by Representatives Brad Miller (D-NC) and Michael Turner (R-OH), brings together members of Congress who understand the value of America's historic places and their potential.

Members of the Congressional Historic Preservation Caucus join together to support and encourage the preservation and thoughtful economic development of historic places in their districts and states as a matter of national policy. The caucus will serve as a clearinghouse for members seeking information and sharing ideas on local, state and national issues and opportunities in historic preservation, including:

- Economic revitalization of downtowns, historic towns, and underutilized historic housing
- Rehabilitation of historic buildings and historic districts
- Heritage tourism
- Preservation of national, tribal, state, and local landmarks
- Providing opportunities for students to learn American history where it happened
- Resources and legislation to support local, state and national efforts

The caucus will create and examine legislative proposals regarding historic preservation and history conceived or introduced by Members to determine the need, effects and potential support. It will also create opportunities for Members and their staffs to interact with preservation professionals and supporters through visits to historic sites, lectures, and seminars.
